

QURBANI MEAT DISTRIBUTION REPORT 2023

What We Did

We undertake Qurbani on behalf of our donors during the Muslim holiday of Eid al-Adha in specific locations across Bangladesh, including the Rohingya Refugee Camp in Cox's Bazar.

We distribute fresh Qurbani meat to extremely vulnerable and needy families who have had very limited access to meat throughout the year. Many of these families are in such dire circumstances that they are unable to gather the necessary spices and ingredients required to prepare the meat. To cater to this particular group, we prepare and cook the meat on the day of Eid, ensuring they have a meal to enjoy, and deliver it directly to their homes.

Why we Did

One of the largest festivals for Muslims worldwide is Eid al-Adha. They celebrate this by performing the Hajj, an annual visit to Mecca, and by offering animals as sacrifices (Qurbani) in remembrance of the Prophet Ibrahim's (PBUH) willingness to offer up his son Ismail (PBUH). Muslims who can afford the Qurbani sacrifice take advantage of the opportunity to feed the hungry with the meat of slaughtered animals. Projects for Humanity is devoted to facilitating everyone's access to and benefit from the Islamic obligation of Qurbani.

Due to poverty, 14% of Bangladesh's population does not have access to food to meet their next meal, making the Qurbani celebration there significant. According to a study by the South Asian Network on Economic Modeling (SANEM) published in 2023, about 37% of low-income households said they were sometimes forced to skip meals. They also said that 71% of families who participated in the study felt that they were eating less food than they needed.

According to data from the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), the average person only consumes 4.0 kilograms of meat annually. Bangladesh is now one of the countries that consumes the least meat worldwide as a result. Comparatively, a resident of the US, the country that consumes the most animal flesh, consumes 120.2 kg of meat annually, which is astonishingly 30 times more than Bangladesh. Many recipients informed us that they hardly had any meat the whole year, which breaks our hearts. Many people struggle to provide necessities such as food for their families. How can they celebrate Eid? Therefore, we provided fresh meat so they can get nutrition and enjoy their Eid al-Adha with their families without worrying about how they will pay for it.

Qurbani at Different District of Bangladesh

Millions of people barely consume meat yearly in Bangladesh. Due to poverty, 14% of Bangladesh's population does not have access to food to meet their next meal. We identified those in different districts, and On Eid-ul-Adha 2023, we slaughtered 20 goats and 18 cows for them. Our volunteers diligently carried out the task of slaughtering the animals, carefully packaging the meat, and distributing it to those in need. Our goal was to make it possible for them to celebrate Eid among us and to help them feed their kids by giving them the gift of meat.

Through these boxes of meat,
we successfully shared the joy of Eid with 6,000 people.

Prepared and Cooked Qurbani Meat for Distribution

Alongside the distribution of Qurbani Meat in Dinajpur, a district in the northern region of Bangladesh. We have encountered numerous families and elderly individuals who are facing extremely challenging circumstances. These vulnerable individuals are unable to gather the essential spices and ingredients necessary for preparing the meat. In order to meet the needs of this specific group, we take it upon ourselves to prepare and cook the meat on the day of Eid itself. This ensures that they can relish a delicious meal, and we go the extra mile by personally delivering it directly to their homes.

Nearly 100 vulnerable families and elderly individuals enjoyed a delicious meal

Qurbani at Rohingya Refugee Camp

Rohingya refugees are the most disadvantaged refugee population in the world. Through they receive food as aid, but usually they cannot eat meat even once a year. But in order to maintain good health, they need protein. That's why we slaughtered 20 goats for the Rohingya refugees at their camp in Cox's Bazar on Eid-ul-Azha 2023. We carefully gave fresh meat to 200 families with the intention of bringing happiness and nourishment to those in need. Our mission was to spread happiness and uplift the spirits of these individuals, especially the children, through the act of Qurbani.

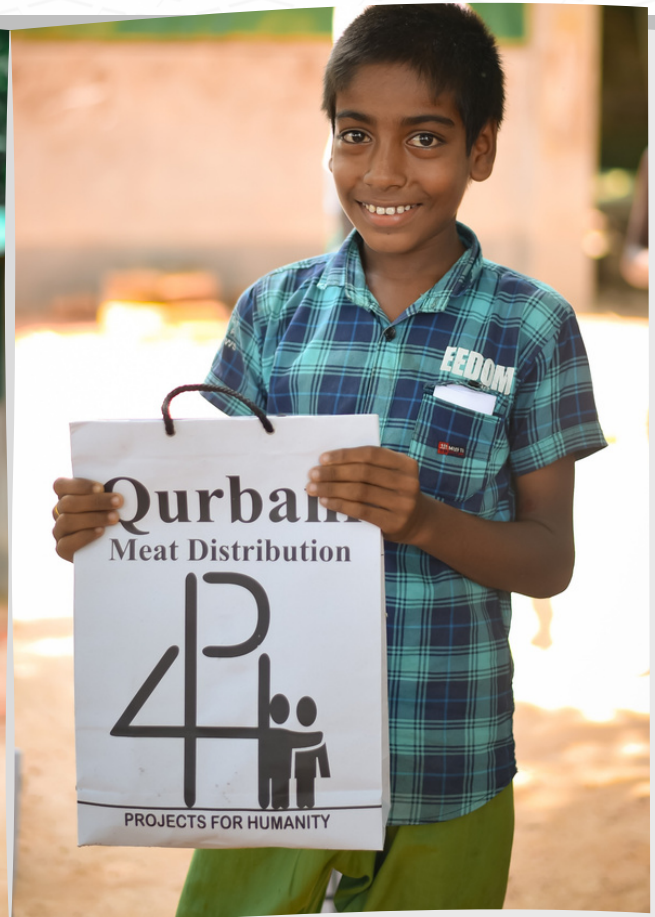

The joy of Eid and the taste of meat were enjoyed by over 1,000 Rohingya people.

Testimonial

Qurbani Meat Recipient

In the past few days, I gathered turmeric, pepper, and other ingredients for cooking meat and I kept them ready since last night. It's already noon, and no one has come to me with meat. My son and daughter have been asking me when we will have meat to eat, but I couldn't give them an answer. They are feeling disappointed and frustrated. Just when I thought all hope was lost, you came with the meat and brought back our hope. You made us incredibly happy.

Qurbani Meat Recipient

Ayesha, a widow and a mother, struggled daily to feed her children. On the day of Eid, her children wanted to eat meat like others, but she could not afford it. She was ashamed to see her children's faces. She is waiting for someone to give them some meat, so that she can feed her children.

He found hope when the kind-hearted people of Project for Humanity extended their helping hand. Gave her and the helpless others of their village sacrificial meat. She cooks the meat and eats it together with the children. She thanked Project for Humanity for supporting and cheering her children on Eid.
